

What Makes The Satanist

Due to pressing time, I will just keep it brief.

Satanism is at the Soul. There is slight to non-existent chance that someone seeks Satan at some point in their life, and their Soul is not Satanic somewhere in nature. Many people don't actively seek out Satan. The more intensive the need, the more Satanic is the Soul. Unless of course this is done in the spirit of jokes, which, even in itself, can have some meaning too. Whoever seeks Satan, has something in their Soul drawing them to Him.

Depending on the power of the bond, it can be a very severe longing, but all Satanic people have something in the back of their head always bringing them back to the one whom today humanity largely, calls Satan.

Now, many people set the baseline too high for their expectations out of nowhere. The Dedication is a rite of passage. You are not initiated. You are level one, square one. The Satanist is also made through meditation, spirituality, growth in wisdom and so forth. Actually, if such qualities were present in the first place, the person has probably delved into "Satanic" things in the past.

This is carried with the Soul and one seeks to enter the path again for further development. Where this comes to someone can vary, as the part of the Soul that remembers reincarnations is not always active unless one has reached a very high spiritual peak, circumstances bring that about, or this is activated by wisdom and realistic meditation.

The blueprints however will be everywhere in your early life. This is actually what you are building. These tendencies of the soul are more powerful than visual or audio memories in themselves. It's instinctive. The soul doesn't understand mortal death like the mortal body and mind does. But the essential "WE" of ourselves remains in a form.

Many people hate themselves for being weak, such as falling in pitfalls like drugs, not meditating, and generally, being a victim of their times. You should hate your weaknesses, not yourself. And the only viable hatred towards your weakness is to have a loyalty into growing strong. This can take a lot of time. Also, bad qualities of a person do not always erase the good qualities.

Beating yourself for falling into a carefully woven conspiracy and a lifestyle that is enforced to you since birth, and being forced into a path by fate or other forces beyond your control, is abnormal. The society is in itself in many places to manipulate 99.9% of people into systematic delusion and failure.

Awakening and becoming a Satanist can take time.

All that matters for one to be able to do the above is the basis of the person. If you have it, you are lucky. That is, a Satanic spirit somewhere in the person.

Satanism is for those who have spiritually elite potential. Actualization of this potential takes time. This process is how one becomes a Spiritual Satanist.

Spiritual Satanism tries to make the Magnum Opus out of the individual person. This process is the complete refinement into the person into an actual Godly and spiritually realized entity. This takes time, effort, but is also an easy path when one is loyal to it and building power through the path.

Perfection takes time.
