

The Jewishness of Jesus Christ's Communist Teachings –

Part One by Jake Carlson

Since there never was a Jewish or a Pagan/Aryan Christ, the Jews still forged a Christ that has elements of both, depending on which aspect of this vile excrement is observed, which means that the Jewish teachings of Christ came from other Jews, some historical, and others just as fictitious as Christ himself.

Although Communism is supposedly many centuries after Christianity had reared its ugly head, it does not matter, as Communism's teachings are a complete echo and reflection of all Christian teachings, including the Christianity that some anti-liberal Christians believe to be "against" Communism.

Much has been said about the alleged references to Christ in the Talmud. There are even some Jews who go along with the Christians' claim that there are "blasphemous" references to Christ and Christianity in the Talmud, despite any such references being much later interpolations to make it look as if Christianity and Judaism are separate, or are even "at war" with each other, when in fact, Christianity, in each and every layer, both left-winged liberal and right-winged conservative, are nothing but Judaic Communism.

Jesus the Christ, also known as Yeshua, the Nazarene, Messiah ben Yosef, Messiah ben David, and Christos, has been so ubiquitous that he hasn't even stopped from putting on the mask of the "Aryan Christ" for the Gentiles who are White Nationalists or National Socialists, but have sympathies for the equally fictitious "Aryan" Christ. While this is pathetic, I understand where the problem originates, and this originates at least partially from the Gentiles not having all of the necessary details of Christ's Jewishness, and because of the Jewish erasing of the history of Aryan culture, most White people have been cut off from their Satanic origins. Almost everyone knows that Christ is Jewish, but some people forget or try to rationalize or make excuses for him. This sermon is for those certain people who at least subconsciously sympathize with Christ and/or let his Jewishness slide and transform into the same phony, but somehow "different" Christ. We will be examining the Torahide and Talmudic origins of Christ's teachings.

Regarding the Jewishness of Christ and his original followers: "The Nazarene never visualized that he and his followers were going to make a movement to replace Torah, as most New Testament followers and interpreters claim. They were only presenting its (Torah) teaching in a slightly different light. They were forming a new group seeking special closeness to G-d and His special teacher, the Nazarene. In other words, a new and special bond was being formed with a new Jewish teacher." [1]

"Not only was Jesus a rabbi, he was a deeply learned, well-versed student of Jewish holy texts. Almost all of his teachings derive directly from the Torah. The lessons he articulated line up squarely with Jewish morality and statements of rabbis found in the Talmud. Some of Jesus' most famous and recognizable teachings are taken directly from earlier Jewish sources.

[Christ's] statements frequently echo the Psalms of David. In one of Jesus' most celebrated quotes he says, 'Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth.' This is a restatement of David's assertion in Psalms, 'The meek will inherit the land and enjoy peace and prosperity.'

Jesus was equally familiar with Talmudic sayings. When Jesus instructs his listeners, 'First take the plank out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to remove the speck from your brother's eye,' he alludes almost word for word to a Talmudic teaching of Rabbi Tarphon: 'If someone urges you to remove the speck from your own eye, he must be given the answer, 'Take the plank out of your own.'

As a devout rabbi trained in the Torah, Jesus founded his sermons, parables, and aphorisms upon the same Jewish sayings and traditions that governed every aspect of his life." [2]

"Virtually everything Jesus taught was based on classical biblical, Pharisaic, and Talmudic teaching. Not only did he not break from the Torah, he sought to reestablish Torah observance over the course of his campaign for spiritual renewal and political liberation.

Nowhere is this better illustrated than in the Sermon on the Mount. Here we see that everything Jesus taught had a biblical and rabbinic origin...And Jesus' most famous teachings and celebrated proverbs have their origin in earlier [Old Testament] biblical texts." [3]

As outlined in the book "Jewish Secrets Hidden In the New Testament" by Rabbi Avraham Feld and Ovadyah Avrahami, here is a comparison of some suicidal quotes from Christ's Sermon on the Mount with their Old Testament roots:

Christ: "Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth. (Matthew 5:5)

Old Testament: The meek will inherit the earth, and enjoy peace and prosperity. (Psalms 37:11)

Christ: Blessed are the pure in heart, for they will see God. (Matthew 5:8)

Old Testament: Who may ascend the mountain of the Lord? Who may stand in his holy place? The one who has clean hands and a pure heart. (Psalms 24:3-4)

Christ: If anyone slaps you on the right cheek, turn to them the other cheek also. (Matthew 5:39)

Old Testament: Let him offer his cheek to one who would strike him... (Lamentations 3:30)

Christ: But seek first His kingdom and His righteousness, and all these things will be given to you as well. (Matthew 6:33)

Old Testament: Take delight in the Lord, and he will give you the desires of your heart. (Psalms 37:4)

Christ: Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. (Matthew 7:7)

Old Testament: You will seek me and find me when you seek me with all your heart. (Jeremiah 29:13)

Christ: Then I will tell them plainly, 'I never knew you. Away from me, you evildoers!' (Matthew 7:23)

Old Testament: Away from me, all you who do evil... (Psalms 6:8)

Christ: Do not give dogs what is sacred; do not throw your pearls to pigs. If you do, they may trample them under their feet, and turn and tear you to pieces. (Matthew 7:6)

Old Testament: Do not speak to fools, for they will scorn your prudent words. (Proverbs 23:9)

"If you read through the entire Sermon on the Mount, you will find that the Gospels did not advocate disobedience to Jewish law, but in fact confirmed the Rabbinic Oral interpretation of what is often derogatorily referred to as 'the Rabbinic man-made Oral laws.'

Thus, the Nazarene's statements waxed symbolic and philosophical in total agreement with the Oral Torah, e.g. adultery is symbolically committed by simply lusting sexually; murder by simply embarrassing someone. These statements by the Nazarene are virtual quotes from earlier Talmudic discussions." [4]

Note: It must be understood that the suicidal teachings of Christ are aimed at the White race to destroy us and our Aryan spirit, while any of Christ's other advice is aimed at the Jewish people to give them the blueprint for annihilating the White Gentiles and enslaving the rest of the world with Christ and his united Jewish people ruling planet Earth and enforcing the Torah and Talmud as the law of the land, replacing all remaining Gentiles' freedoms and civil liberties with a Communist Jewish dictatorship. The non-White Gentiles also need to wake up because this slavery will be their future when there is no longer a population of White Gentiles who can stop this cruel plan of the Jewish people.

"The Gospels are therefore totally in line with the Pharisaical approach of looking at both the internal and external ramifications of the divine imperatives." [5]

Here is an important question for Christians who think that they know the Christian Bible more than they really do: DID CHRIST'S USELESS DEATH ON THE CROSS FOR THE "SINS" OF MANKIND REALLY "ABOLISH" THE TORAH SO

THAT FAITH AND "REPENTANCE" CAN REPLACE THE OLDER JEWISH COVENANTS?!?! The scriptures and Jewish commentary speak for themselves...

"Matthew 5:17: Christ speaking: 'Think not that I have come to abolish the Law and the Prophets. I have come not to abolish but to fulfill them.'

Christian theology generally interprets this as meaning that, 'because [Christ] fulfilled the Law, therefore the Law has been done away with.' This conclusion is formed despite the fact that a double statement of non-abolishment of the Law precedes the statement of 'fulfillment.'

So whatever interpretation you want to give for the word 'fulfill,' it cannot have as its bottom line the nullification of those said laws. Many times in the Gospel text it speaks about preserving, sustaining and living up to the righteousness of the law-abiding community (Matthew 23:3).

This is an amazing confirmation of the Nazarene's qualification [of being the Jewish Messiah in the Jewish gospel tale]." "Here we have an example par excellence, a confirmation of faith by the Gospels in the authority of the Oral Torah's transmission of the true form of the Written Torah." [6]

As we can see, on the contrary, in the Jewish gospel narratives, Christ's death on the cross didn't nullify the "Old Jewish Law" in favor of a "new" covenant with Jehovah-Yahweh, but ENFORCED following the Jewish Torah to the letter for Jews through Jewish racial loyalty, and for the Gentiles to follow the laws from the Torah and Noahide Laws that were selected for the Gentiles-only, namely, the suicidal advice from Christ in the Sermon On the Mount and the Pauline letters that are designed to destroy the White Aryan race and enslave all remaining races to Christ in his so-called second coming that the Jews are planning to stage unless everybody wakes up!

"It is the Nazarene's observance of the Jewish festival of Chanukah which presents probably the strongest confirmation of his sanctioning of Jewish Oral Torah [as opposed to Written Torah]." "It is a profound fact that the observance of Chanukah appears only in three sources, viz. the New Testament, the book of Maccabees and the Talmud!" [7]

Obviously, the Christian messiah is not the Pagan messiah [the Anti-Christ], but the Jewish messiah. Satan and the Powers of Hell have been the forces behind what has prevented the coming of Jesus Christ, and if our people keep upping the volume to our Anti-Semitism and are increasingly aggressive in our spiritual warfare, there never will be a Jesus Christ to exist in the physical world, and the thought-form of this worthless kike, will be destroyed on the astral plane before it can materialize into reality.

This sermon will be continued in part two...
